Prison Conditions. Inmate's claim of exposure to tobacco smoke stated Eighth Amendment cause of action.

Prisoner brought civil rights action against prison officials, alleging violation of Eighth Amendment due to his exposure to environmental tobacco smoke (ETS). The United States District Court for the District of Nevada, Edward C. Reed, Jr., Chief Judge, directed verdict for prison officials and inmate appealed. The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, 924 F.2d 1500, affirmed in part, reversed in part and remanded, and certiorari was granted. The Supreme Court, 112 S.Ct. 291, vacated and remanded. Thereafter, the Court of Appeals, 959 F.2d 853, reinstated and remanded. Certiorari was granted. The Supreme Court, Justice White, held that: (1) prisoner's Eighth Amendment claim could be based upon possible future harm to health, as well as present harm, arising out of exposure to ETS; (2) prisoner stated cause of action for violation of his Eighth Amendment rights; and (3) on remand consideration must be given to circumstances in prisoner's new prison location, including nonsmoking policies, in determining whether objective element of Eighth Amendment claim, exposure to excessive ETS, and subjective element, deliberate indifference to prisoner's situation, were still present.

Affirmed and remanded.

Justice Thomas dissented and filed opinion, in which Justice Scalia joined.

...In order for prisoner to obtain injunction prohibiting prison officials from violating his Eighth Amendment rights by exposing him to environmental tobacco smoke (ETS), prisoner will be required to show, as objective element, that he is being exposed to unreasonably high levels of ETS, and as subjective element, that officials have shown deliberate indifference to his exposure.
