Note that all Boolean operators must use capital letters.

①	AND	to search for multiple terms i.e.evidence AND admissibility will produce documents that contain both terms.
②	OR	to search for either one of a pair of similar terms i.e. brief OR evidence will produce documents that contain either of these terms
③	NOT	to exclude a term from a search i.e. evidence NOT briefs will exclude every search result containing the word "briefs"
④	" "	use quotes to search for a phrase i.e. "love canal" will search for documents containing the exact phrase "love canal"
	()	to search grouped clauses to form sub queries i.e. (watershed OR "water rights") AND planning will produce documents that contain either watershed or water rights and planning
	~	to search for words within a particular proximity of each other i.e. "watershed planning"~10 will search for watershed within 10 words of planning
	?	to search for words where there may be variations of the word that you want included in your search i.e. te?t will produce documents that contain text or test
	*	to search for a word with multiple character differences i.e. brief* will return searches with the words brief, briefs, and briefed
	w/# or /#	to search for two words within a set proximity of one another, i.e. jury w/5 discrimination or jury /5 discrimination
	w/s or /s	to search for two words within a sentence, i.e. jury w/s discrimination or jury /s discrimination
	w/p or /p	to search for two words within a paragraph, i.e. jury w/p discrimination or jury /p discrimination

The New York Law School and the Harvard Law Review
American Law Review, Vol. 26, Issue 1 (January/February 1892), pp. 155-158
Chase, George (Cited 38 times)
26 Am. L. Rev. 155 (1892)

Central Thesis:
The article presents a letter from George Chase, Dean of the New York Law School, addressing inaccuracies in a comparison made by the Harvard Law Review between New York Law School and Columbia Law School. Chase challenges the portrayal of New York Law School's resources and methodologies, emphasizing the strengths of its library, teaching methods, and approach to legal education.

Legal/Academic Issues Addressed:

- Comparison of law libraries between institutions.

Teaching methodologies:

- Dwight method vs. Harvard's lecture system.
- Role of case studies in legal education.
- Balance between theoretical and practical legal training.
- Student policies on entering law offices during studies.

Methodologies/Data Sources:

- Detailed description of the New York Law School's library holdings.
- Explanation of the Dwight method, including its focus on recitation and understanding.
- Policies on student internships and practical training.
- Reference to authorities like Lord Mansfield to support arguments.

Findings/Analysis:

- Inaccuracies in the Harvard Law Review's library comparison.
- Misrepresentation of the Dwight method's effectiveness.
- Underestimation of case studies' role in the curriculum.
- Nuanced approach to student internships contrary to the Review's portrayal.
